

Announcer: Senator Voinovich, after 4 long years, listen to the voices of the people of Ohio who want a safe and responsible end to the war in Iraq.

Mother: I'm sorry, um, I'm having a hard time talking because my son is being deployed to Iraq in May and it's wrong. It's a civil war over in Iraq war, it's not our war. Let's bring our boys home, keep them home, and protect our boundaries. They don't want us there. And I don't want my son there. It's very hard because in two weeks my son's leaving. I guess that's all I have to say.

Announcer: Senator Voinovich, listen to the people of Ohio.

Ohio Resident: George W. Bush is not king. He is the elected president of the democratic United States of America, and if the majority of our citizens have agreed that it is time to end this senseless war in Iraq, then we expect a plan to bring our troops home.

Ohio Resident 2: The problem was weapons of mass destruction. If that was our mission, our mission was accomplished about three weeks after the war started when we found that there were no weapons on mass destruction.

Ohio Resident 3: George Bush is always talking about supporting our troops. If he truly cared, we would not have hospitals like Walter Reed for veterans. We would have not made cuts in veterans' benefits. He would not have gone against the Geneva Convention, putting our soldiers in harms way when captured. The world needs leaders to teach people to think for themselves and not accept anything on face value.
